

FINANCE

Students who major in finance often find jobs in banks or other financial institutions. Or they become stockbrokers, or work for financial management or investment banking services. Finance graduates also work in health care organizations, schools, industry, or in city planning and operations.

academics that matter

Whatever major you choose, you'll learn what it takes to succeed. Ask good questions. Find answers. Balance academics with fun times. And learn how to organize, write and present your final research. You'll have plenty of opportunities to develop new skills and to hone the ones you already have.

side by side

- Ha Phan '08, accounting and finance, checked with Manchester's Office of Career Services and found a summer opportunity she couldn't turn down. She was offered a position assisting the CFO at First Federal Savings Bank in Wabash, Ind.

- When companies have good experiences with Manchester interns, word gets out. Doncho Donchev '08 interned with Merrill Lynch in Fort Wayne, and the company was so pleased with his performance, they wanted another intern. Michael Khayyat '08, who is majoring in finance and accounting, got the job.

SUCCESS

- Lisa Updike '03, finance major, graduated from IU law school, where she had the prestigious honor of being a member of the Law Review. She is now an associate attorney with Barnes & Thornburg in Fort Wayne.
- Joshua Nifong '07 interned with Zimmer Inc. of Warsaw, Ind., in the finance department, then accepted a position as financial analyst with Umbaugh & Associates in Plymouth, Ind.

I FOUND

... LIFELONG FRIENDS

department. I liked how I got to know the professors on a personal level. They truly care about the students, and the one-on-one attention I got from professors was extremely helpful.

Joshua Nifong '07, finance major
